In Loving Memory of Deborah Kay Moore

March 25, 1957 – March 13, 2025

Deborah Kay Moore passed away peacefully on March 13, 2025, just shy of her 68th birthday. Born on March 25, 1957, in Dallas, Texas, Deborah lived a life defined by compassion, generosity, and joy.

Deborah worked in customer service, a fitting path for someone who was always looking out for others. Whether it was a kind word or the shirt off her back, she was the first to give and never asked for anything in return. Helping people wasn't just what she did — it was who she was.

She was preceded in death by her loving parents, Darlene Austin and James Moore. She is survived by her daughter Jennifer Holland of Aubrey, Texas; her sisters Lauranne Traurig of Denton, Texas, and Lisa Masters of Forney, her brother Brad Moore of Forney, Texas; and countless friends and extended family who were touched by her kindness and infectious laughter.

Deborah found joy in life's simple, beautiful things — music that moved her, dancing with her family, the breathtaking wonder of mountains and the ocean. She adored fresh flowers and vibrant colors, and nothing could make her laugh quite like Betty Boop.

To know Deborah was to be reminded of what it means to be a free spirit. She gave freely, loved deeply, and lived fully. She truly believed in the words of Bob Marley

“Don’t worry about a thing / ‘Cause every little thing is gonna be all right.”

She will be missed more than words can express, and remembered with every song, every flower, and every shared dance.

In honor of her wishes, there will be no formal funeral. Instead, her family will celebrate her life the way she lived it — with love, laughter, music, and dancing.
